My Voice Email Review: It is good to see that voice email is now available for Windows users. There are many features for voice mail. All you need to do is to speak your message in email and then click the send button. It will take much less time than if you would type in a whole message. All you need to do is speak your message and you can immediately listen to it on the receiving end. You can send audio messages as attachments, send it to your family or friends and share your experience with other people. It is quite easy to use and very efficient. When you send a message, you will not be able to modify your audio message so you need to think about how you want to sound in the first place. You can either save your audio message to your computer or to an audio format. You can also record a voice message directly and send it to others. If you have been sending audio messages in regular email before,
