

FlexSim provides software for modeling, simulating, analyzing and visualizing (in 3D!) interactions between robots and humans in the real world. Today, FlexSim provides a platform for creating applications that can be used to automate processes related to everyday life. System flexibility provides application flexibility, allowing you to create applications for various scenarios, from industrial systems to educational systems and other applications. FlexSim allows the user to create applications in C++, Python, Java, C# or JavaScript.
