The latest version of AutoCAD, AutoCAD LT, is an open-source and free software application. The FreeCAD project is a FreeCAD fork, created in 2012, that aims to promote the use of FreeCAD, which is a successor to AutoCAD LT. Awards and honors During his presentation of the Computerworld Visionary of the Year award in 2009, Stephen Few (of the Few Details and Influence! Research Group) noted, "AutoCAD is the world's most popular commercial computer-aided drafting software, with over 12.5 million users worldwide and over 90% of commercial drafting firms having at least a license for AutoCAD." In 2013, Autodesk named AutoCAD as the "award winning product of the year".

This award recognizes AutoCAD for its wide-range of features, ease of use, and user-friendly interface.
