No matter whether you are a Windows user or a Mac user, you will need to install .dmg files. The right way to install any .dmg files is to right-click on the file, select the option to install it, and wait for the installation process to finish. The process may take a while depending on the file type. This will avoid unnecessary iTunes re-downloading of media content. Downloading is simple. You can simply drag and drop the file that you wish to download from your computer's desktop into the iTunes application window. You will see an icon placed in the main window. Click on this to begin the. With 1.2 version of iTunes, we have now options to manage sync better. All we need to do is download a new profile and set it up. After the new profile has been set up, we will have to see the added options that we now get in the sync setup window. This window contains a lot of information and once we have everything set up, we are done. iTunes now supports Android devices and Apple has in fact introduced i to iPhone syncing recently, so you no longer need to carry two devices to sync. We can view how much space we have available on our iTunes library with the 'Storage' tab on iTunes. If you are using the iTunes for Mac OS 10.5 or any previous versions, to view how much space you have, go to the menu and select the menu option 'Preferences' and then select the tab 'Interface'. There you can see your storage space. You can now open the folder to see how the information is stored, and delete whatever you need to. We can do this for any kind of sync. For instance, we can just go for iPod sync to view how much space we have available on our iPod. In the menu go to 'Preferences' and then select the tab 'Options'. We can view how much space we have on our iPod and if any are set up and ready to sync, just click on the 'Sync' option and you are done. If you just need to access the files or the movies that you have backed up on your. We can move files to any computer via our own wish by simply dragging and dropping the file in any folder. You can move the file you want to any other folder by simply right-clicking on the file
