"I love that you can use the information in a way that enriches my shopping experience." "You can't get this level of concierge service elsewhere and at this price." It's that simple, really. So, when you add the above to the fact that Lowe's doesn't have retail locations nearby and moves about 15% of orders to the UPS store, that alone is compelling, and then when you add in the fact that they are fully integrated into a mobile app, which can automate order placement locations (and importantly, not place orders when you don't have a signal) and pass those details along to your actual vendor (generally, via the UPS store), you've got a powerful, pervasive solution that can dramatically improve the customer experience while cutting costs. You see, customer service goes beyond just ordering products and delivery and delivery supplies. It's your relationship with customers and, when 6d1f23a050
